7. Descriptive Questions:

a. Give an example of boys and girls being treated equally in the family.

Ans: We should treat our boys and girls child equally. As men and women have equal contribution in the development of the society, so they must be treated equally. There are many families in our country who treat their children with difference. At the same time, there are some families where they are treated equally. But these types of families are very few in number.

b. What would you do if you'd been rude to a friend?

Ans: As social being we should be very good to everyone. Everywhere in our daily life we must be friendly with all. In the school, there might be some problems among the students. But all the students should behave gently. We should not be rude to anybody. If it happens, I think, I should say sorry to my friend in the next day and should solve the problems.
